STUDY STATEMENT

WRITING PROCESS

@sarasultanaqib

Tell your STORY!!

Sara Sultan
"Life Coach"

The SOP or personal statement is one of the most difficult pieces of writing, there is no denying that. But it is also the most exciting part of an application!!

Because it is your own story where you are the hero...

I am Sara and this has always been my favorite type of writing. It helped me reflect upon my life and question myself.

If your statement left you pondering about what you want from your life, you have done it write. So this is your chance, pick up your pen and,

Tell YOUR Story !!

What do you need?

Demonstrate two things in PS –
What you are and what you aspire to be..

A Picture

A picture of your overall personality;
What makes you who you are today?
Why you are the person you are today?
Explain your motivations, your struggles, and your passions. What is your life story?
And most importantly, why are you writing this statement, what inspires you to pursue this program that you intend to apply for..

A Plan

A plan with clarity of your future goals;
Where do you see yourself in the next 5–10 years?
What inspires your goals and why?
How do you wish to pursue your goals?
What path do you need to take and what skills of yours will get you there?
And most importantly, how will your skills and plans benefit the program you intend to apply for..

Process

1 Prepare

List the things that you have done or have been important to you. Learnings, training, classes, important readings, experiences, and extracurricular activities. Explain any discrepancies or gaps in your record. Demonstrate the skills, goals, and contributions that you can make to the program.

2 Write

Make several outlines and convert them to an engaging and interesting story. Divide into 3 parts;

- Opening: A motivation, or inspiration, and influences.
- Body: Background, achievements, skills, influencing events
- Conclusion: Bring it all together and connect everything.

3 Revise

Don't expect too much from your first attempts and write as many drafts as you feel are necessary. You are likely to be exhausted, fed up, and sick of the whole project. Give the essay to somebody else to look at. Spend more time on the first and last paragraphs, they both need to be snappy and interesting.

Do's and Don'ts, Tips

Do's

- Do take a lot of time.
- Do read the questions carefully if mentioned.
- Do write the length of essay they ask for.
- Do mention your work experience, volunteer work that you may have done, or extra-curricular activities if they relate to your field.
- Do expect to produce several drafts

Don'ts

- Don't try to second-guess admissions faculty or try to flatter them.
- Don't be phony. Be honest.
- Don't glorify yourself.
- Do not repeat materials that are already on the application.
- Don't state general information, be specific

Tips

Write in an active voice and focus on yourself.
Write simply, not using fancy words.
Write in a straightforward way.
Write in a clear and logical manner.
Be specific and clear in what you are saying.
Demonstrate your skills with examples.
Use strong and action verbs.
